

inspiration innovation integrity

NAME: David Noble

ROLE: Member

David has been a Maths teacher for fifteen years and is currently Head of Main School (Assistant Head) of Trent college in Long Eaton, having moved to the East Midlands three years ago to take up the position. Prior to this, David held the same position at the Manchester Grammar School in Manchester, where he worked for ten years. During his career, David has held several roles within three schools, including Head of Year, Head of PSHE and Deputy Head of Mathematics. David grew up in Manchester, where he was educated at Audenshaw school, before studying for a Masters degree in Mathematics at the university of Oxford (St Anneís College). Since becoming a teacher, David has completed a Masters degree in educational leadership and improvement along with an MBA. David is a member of the local governing board of a primary school in Spondon, Borrow Wood, where he works on educational improvement, curriculum, budget and Mathematics provision.